MAINE MILITIA.

REPORT OF ITS CONDITION.

The following report of the inspection of the Maine Volunteer Militia, by Lieut. M. Crawford, 2d U. S. Artillery, will prove interesting:

BRUNSWICK, Me., Nov. 1, 1881.

"LIEUT.-COL. D. O'C. O'DONOGHUE,

Asst. Adjt. General Maine Militia.

"COLONEL:—In compliance with verbal instructions from the Major General Commanding, I have the honor to report the result of my inspection of the First and Second Regiments of Infantry and the Light Battery, of the Maine State Militia, encamped at Camp Plaisted, Augusta, Maine, September 13th to 18th, 1881, inclusive.

"My inspection was made on the 14th, the troops being paraded for the purpose. The Light Battery was first inspected, and was found to be as follows:

"Material. The Battery is composed of four 12 pounder brass guns (Napoleon) with their limbers and caissons, together with a small caliber Gatling gun. The carriages of the four guns, although in apparently good order, were evidently very old and probably unsound and would not be likely to withstand much hard service. The horses used were such as could be hired for the occasion.

"The implements and equipments could not be fully inspected as to presence or condition, as the pouches, which should have contained a portion of them, were not worn by the cannoneers. A part of the enlisted men of the battery were armed with a very heavy and cumbersome sabre of an obsolete pattern, which could be advantageously discarded for the corporals sabre, the pistol belt being retained, and the cutlass of section armed with the modern artillery sabre. The material so far as could be seen, was in serviceable condition and had been well cared for.

"Personnel. The Battery, taken as a single organization, was insufficiently manned, and in consequence the cannoneers had more than their proper duties to perform, which of course detracted from the symmetry of the drills. The physique of the men was very fine, and their evident enthusiasm and attention to orders deserves the highest praise.

"The clothing was uniform and good, and had been well cared for.

"Drill. I carefully observed the drill of the battery, both standing gun and mounted, on several occasions. In the former there seemed to be a great difference in the amount of instruction received by the cannoneers, some performing the manual of the piece well, others very poorly.

"The difficulty of executing the evolutions of a mounted battery with green horses is well known, but in no particular of the encampment was improvement so marked as in this, and with a longer encampment, and the horses and drivers remaining practically the same from year to year, a great degree of perfection could be easily attained.

"The Infantry Regiments when inspected were in light marching order, i. e., in full dress uniform, without haversacks, canteens, etc. The general appearance of both regiments was very good.

"The arms, except those of one attached company, were the present U. S., cal. 45, service rifles; the arms of the excepted company being the old pattern Cadet rifle, cal. 45. A detailed inspection showed that the arms and equipments were in good serviceable condition, except in a few instances where the chambers of the pieces had been allowed to become rusty, and the mechanism of the locks broken. These defects should have been corrected by the company commanders.

"The clothing was found to be uniform and in very good condition.

"In executing the 'inspection arms,' much awkwardness was observed in several of the companies of both regiments where the other parts of the manual were excellently well rendered. I would note here, that I do not know of any authority prescribing the movement of 'inspection sword' by commissioned officers in front of their companies when approached by the inspector, such at least is not the custom in the United States regular service. Again, the salute with the hand rendered by the company at the command 'attention' from its commander, as the General and staff approached the head of the company streets for the purpose of inspecting quarters, was not given simultaneously in the great majority of the companies.

"I observed carefully the company and battalion drills on parades of both regiments on several occasions, and while minor errors were frequently observable both on the part of officers and men, yet as a whole the exercises were certainly of a very satisfactory character, especially towards the end of the encampment.

"In this connection I may state that the principal errors and mistakes seemed to arise from a lack of distinctness of some of the company commanders in giving their commands, in their failing to observe a sufficient interval of time between the 'preparatory commands' and the 'commands of execution,' and in a few instances, in giving commands which a too retentive memory had evidently stored up from systems of tactics no longer in use.

"The camps, both of Infantry and Artillery, seemed to be healthy, and the tents were well pitched and not over-crowded.

"The camp guard duty seemed to be well and intelligently performed, the sentinels entering at once into the spirit of their duties, and carrying out their orders minutely.

"The police of most of the company streets was good, a few were excellent, while one or two were indifferent.

"The kitchen, mess rooms and sinks were generally in fair condition.

"One important feature of the camp, however, seemed to have been but ill provided for, namely, the bedding for the men. In several of the companies no bedsacks seem to have been provided and the straw which was furnished was simply dumped on the tent floors and so used, thus, to say nothing of the personal discomfort of the occupants, spoiling all appearance of neatness in the interior of the tents.

"Either the State or the individual soldiers should furnish the common white bedsack, army pattern, which is inexpensive and easily transported.

"In order that the few days of an encampment may be profitable to the State, the soldier must be able to pass his nights in comfort.

"The honors rendered by the troops were, in the main well and cheerfully given, but the googling and even sitting attitudes in which individual soldiers, when not under arms, and sometimes when engaged in occupations where a salute should not be given, were frequently observed to salute officers showed a lack of instruction on these points of military etiquette.

"Before closing this report I would respectfully offer the following suggestions in addition to those already made:

"First, with regard to the length of time the troops were encamped.

"Four days, as at present allowed, seems to me to be too little when it is remembered that the first and last days are of little use for the purpose of methodical instruction.

"I believe that an encampment of six days would afford more instruction to the troops than two encampments of four days each, one year apart.

"Next in importance in facilitating rapid instruction is the permanency of the camp. If the same grounds could be used from year to year, both officers and men would be enabled to arrange themselves for the work in hand with the greatest possible celerity, and much valuable time would be saved.

"Lastly, in regard to the formal inspection. Its importance is so great that much more time should be allotted to it than was given this year, in order that it might be more exact and searching. I would also urge the propriety of the troops being fully equipped for field service on this occasion, i. e., with haversacks, knapsacks, canteens, overcoats and blankets, or as much thereof as is furnished by the State. Otherwise it is impossible for the inspector to report intelligently upon their readiness for immediate service; and furthermore, an encampment of this kind is believed to be the proper place to teach the soldier what he needs for his own comfort, and the proper use and care of such equipage.

Respectfully submitted,

M. CRAWFORD,

1st Lt. 2d U. S. Art'y, Acting Inspector."

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

The Journal says: Mr. Stevenson, the Maine Central railroad's civil engineer, was in Lewiston Tuesday, and is about to survey a route for a spur of the Maine Central's track from the lower road in this city, across the river at the ripe, to Farwell's mill site in Auburn.

Aroostook.

The Houlton Pioneer says: Messrs. I. A. Reel and C. F. R. Dibblee, civil engineers, from Fredericton, commenced, Tuesday, under instructions from the N. B. Ry. Co., the work of surveying for a railroad from Houlton to Presque Isle. They start from the county road bridge, and will follow up the north branch three letters B, and C. Range 2, keeping west of Littleton and Monticello. They expect to meet the Presque Isle party at Bridgewater, about Christmas, after which they will survey a route from Houlton to Bancroft.

Cumberland.

The Press says that a railroad between Quebec and Portland is proposed, and President Wyatt of the Quebec Central is now in Portland in the interest of the project.

The following is an account of the improvements in Portland Harbor: By means of a dredging machine, the ship channel which was formerly not quite six hundred feet wide has been widened to eight hundred feet, with a depth of water now at twenty-one feet at mean low tide. What is known as the middle ground or deep water line has been removed to a point opposite the lower corner of Portland company's wharf, and when the present improvements are completed it will be moved one hundred and fifty feet still farther east. The lower buoy in the channel has been set three hundred and fifty feet to the northeast from its former location, and the upper one seven hundred feet to the east-northeast, and the two buoys will now indicate the northern end of the channel.

Kennebec.

The Augusta Journal says that the dwelling house of J. L. Weeks, of Litchfield, was destroyed by fire last Saturday afternoon. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defect in the chimney. Nearly all the furniture and household goods were saved. It was only by the energetic efforts of those present that the barn was saved. The buildings were insured. There have been no important fires in Litchfield for several years until the burning of the entire buildings of Messrs. Lapham and Packard, Oct. 16th, and Joseph Sidman, Oct. 21st. The assessment of the Litchfield Mutual Fire Insurance Company, caused by the fires of October 16th and 21st, has been made and collected. The rate was 2 per cent. on the amount insured on ordinary risks. The company was formed in 1825, and the policies now cover risks of $192,000.

The Journal says that a sad drowning accident occurred on Ward Pond, Sidney, Monday evening. A party of young people were enjoying a skating frolic on the smooth ice. Among the rest was a young man named Everett Woodward, 23 or 24 years of age. He skated away from his companions, and broke through the treacherous ice into the cold water. Before assistance could be procured he sank beneath the surface and was drowned. His body was recovered about midnight.

Piscataquis.

A correspondent to the Lewiston Journal says: Col. Henry Williamson died at his home in Parkman, Dec. 1st, after a long and painful illness. He was born in Starks (now Mercer) Feb. 15, 1807, and was consequently in the seventy-fifth year of his age. In 1837 he moved to Parkman where he has since resided. He has filled various positions of honor and trust, winning the esteem of those with whom he has been associated. He was for several years postmaster at Parkman Center and has been a member of the board of selectmen. In 1842, during the Northeastern boundary trouble, he was commissioned as Captain of Parkman Light Infantry. He was a colonel in the State militia for several years. His ready wit and good humor made him an agreeable companion. He was firm in his religious and political convictions, yet ever ready to grant to others the right of opinion without controversy. He leaves a widow, with whom he had lived for more than fifty years, and three children to mourn the loss of a kind husband and indulgent father.

Sagadahoc.

The Press says that in 1873 a woman named Mrs. Lottie M. Wright, of Bath, was convicted in the Portland Municipal Court of the theft of a silk dress and suffered confinement in jail for a term of thirty days. Now the husband of the real thief certifies in writing that Mrs. Wright was innocent of the crime, and that the wife escaped the punishment of the offence by assisting to convict Mrs. Wright. It is certainly a bad case that an innocent woman should so long suffer under the imputation of crime.

York.

Some fourteen years ago, writes a correspondent of the Journal: Thomas Goodall came from Troy, N. H. where he had been manufacturing shoddy, to Sanford, bought a small mill of Mr. Miller and commenced operations there. There is now the Sanford mill, where robes are manufactured, which is being enlarged to 165 feet in length. No. 2 is nearly as large and is used mainly for printing and finishing. The Mousam River mill is about the same size, where they manufacture horse blankets. They have another mill nearly completed, fully as large as the Sanford mill. They are also laying a foundation for a new mill to be erected in the spring to be 210 feet long. The old mill was used by Mr. Miller as a flannel mill. The raw mill product of staves and shooks is largely shipped to Cuba and the West Indies. Sanford is a smart growing village of 600 inhabitants. The hotels are good. Springvale, another village in the same town, has some 1100 inhabitants, and the business industries are well represented. It is quite a place for manufacturing clothing. They have also a cotton mill. Two of the mills at Sanford are fitted to run by steam.

General John H. Marshdale, of Rochester, is reported to be dying in the south of France, where he recently went for the benefit of his health.

GOVERNOR PLAISTED'S FOLLY.

Folly is the mildest term that can be applied to the course pursued by Governor Plaisted in persistently refusing to perform his duty by signing warrants for the salary of the Reporter of the Supreme Court, who has been and is performing all the duties of the office with the full recognition of every department and branch of the State Government save only His Wilful Highness.

While it is to be expected that such irresponsible and unscrupulous sheets as the Commercial and Argus will applaud anything the Fusion Governor may do or say, however ridiculous or shameful, it cannot be that the rank and file of his own party will approve an exhibition of mere mulishness that only puts him and his supporters more clearly in the wrong and renders his attitude still more indefensible.

The Executive Council have thrice drawn the quarterly warrants for the salary of the Reporter of Decisions of the Supreme Judicial Court, and Governor Plaisted has thrice refused to sign them. Why? At first his claim was that Colonel Spaulding had been removed by him and was, therefore, not legally entitled to any salary. But that question has been submitted to the highest and final authority and the Supreme Court have unanimously decided that Col. Spaulding has not been removed, but that he continues legally and constitutionally to hold his office, the duties of which he has never ceased to discharge.

Still Governor Plaisted refuses to sign any warrants for the payment of the salary that has been duly earned by that duly accredited State official. Why? Does Governor Plaisted believe that his individual opinion as to the Reporter's title is more authoritative than the unanimous judgment of the eight Justices of the Supreme Court? No, for he admits the Court's jurisdiction, but claims that he wants a second decision, to be obtained through a different process. Yet he does not even express a doubt that the second decision would be, as it must be, the same as the first. His refusal to sign the warrants, therefore, can be based upon nothing more than a puerile spitefulness that is determined to annoy the Reporter about his pay, in revenge for the disastrous failure of the attempt to remove him.

But there is no excuse for this folly, on any ground. Even if the Governor honestly believed that Col. Spaulding had been constitutionally removed, he knows perfectly well that whether or not his title is sound as a de jure officer, he has been performing all the functions and has been constantly recognized by the Court as the Reporter de facto, and as such is clearly entitled to his pay. Gov. Plaisted knows that regardless of all controversy that has been raised, Col. Joseph W. Spaulding has been serving the State in the office of Reporter during all these nine months, and that a refusal to pay him is a dishonesty and an outrage.

And Governor Plaisted cannot plead in excuse any habit of severe and technical adherence to the strict letter of the law in the matter of signing warrants to draw money out of the Treasury. His first act after his inauguration was to make a fight to force his son into the place of Messenger to the Governor and Council to the exclusion of a wounded soldier, and after bullying the Council into allowing him a salary for Private Secretary without any sanction of law, Governor Plaisted has promptly signed the warrants that have taken from the Treasury hundreds of dollars for an unauthorized office in the name of his own son who was not of competent age to hold official position.

Every citizen knows that Reporter Spaulding is entitled to his pay. "Every intelligent, law-abiding man knows that the unanimous opinion of the Court has settled the question as to his title; and we now challenge Governor Plaisted and his organs to produce a single, decent lawyer in this State who will come forward and say that there is the slightest legal or constitutional basis for his assumption of the power to remove the Reporter without the concurrence of the Council.

Governor Plaisted's attitude is that of revolutionary obstruction. The Constitution requires that no money be paid out save by warrant from the Governor and Council, and he can refuse to perform his duty in any other case, and thus prevent the payment of any State obligations. He can refuse to sign warrants to pay the salaries of the Supreme Court Justices, in punishment for their unsatisfactory opinion, and if the Council could refuse to draw warrants for the salary of the Governor and his son. But the people of Maine will not tolerate this tampering with public duties and interests on the basis of personal spites or partisan intrigue, as Governor Plaisted will learn in due time.

HOW IT HATES THE SOLDIERS.

We do not think Congressman Ladd ever offended his political brethren of the Copperhead persuasion very much by any special manifestations of sympathy for our soldiers, and it is more than likely that his offering of a bill the other day "for the relief of the soldiers of the First and Second Massachusetts Regiments in the War of 1812," was the first and only thing of the kind ever attempted by him. But the mention of the word "soldier," even if applied as far back as the War of 1812, has the effect of a red rag to the eyes of the Commercial, so it pounces upon Congressman Ladd in a furious passion, and lets out its hatred of the Union "soldiers of the war" in this style:

Now isn't it about time for somebody to introduce a bill for the 'relief' of the people from the burdens which the arrant mahogany of both parties in the last Congress imposed upon them for the 'relief of the soldiers of the late war? We think that the people stand rather more in need of 'relief' than either the soldiers of the war of 1812 or those of the war of '61."

Of course you think so, and everybody has understood it, from the time when you denounced our soldiers in 1861 while they were marching to the front, to the present moment when you hold that any wealthy Bourbon who gloated over the slaughter of our boys, has a better claim for a few cents reduction of taxes, if he pays any, than a one-legged or one-armed soldier, or the widow or orphans of our dead heroes have to receive the pittance of a pension from the great and prosperous Nation whose life they offered their own to preserve. You need not be afraid that anybody will think that you waste any sympathy upon "soldiers."

THE LICENSE ISSUE IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Premising, as we justly may, that the licensing of the sale of intoxicating liquors finds its strongest support in the cities, the voting in Massachusetts last Tuesday furnishes some significant indications. Of twenty cities where the "yes" and "no" vote was taken, Boston, of course, favored license by ten thousand majority, but eight of the remaining nineteen, viz: Somerville, Newton, Brockton, Haverhill, Gloucester, Fitchburg, Lynn and Newburyport voted against license, and of the eleven that voted in its favor several gave very small majorities. In the nineteen cities, with an aggregate of over 61,000 votes on the question, the majority in favor of license was only 2,122. When the cities of Massachusetts come so near adopting Prohibition there cannot be much doubt as to the sentiment of the State at large.

AN AVOWED POLYGAMIST.

Among the papers of contest now on file in the House of Representatives in the case of the Delegate from Utah, is the following statement by the Mormon Delegate who has held the seat for eight years past, and who received a great majority of the votes at the last election, the contest being based on the ground that Cannon has never been naturalized. Hitherto Cannon has never made any official admission of his polygamy, and he filed the following rather than have his contestant summon as witnesses every one of his wives and children:

I, George Q. Cannon, contestant, protesting that the matter in this paper contained is not relevant to the issue, do admit that I am a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, commonly called Mormons; that in accordance with the tenets of said church I have taken plural wives, who now live with me and have so lived with me for a number of years and borne me children. I also admit that in my public addresses as a teacher of my religion in Utah Territory I have defended said tenet of said church as being in my belief a revelation from God.

GEORGE Q. CANNON.

MR. BLAINE'S DIPLOMACY.

[From the Philadelphia North-American.]

The full text of the correspondence between the State Department at Washington and Ministers Hurlbut and Kilpatrick in regard to the political relations between Chili and Peru has now been made public. It amounts to a complete and emphatic justification of the course which Secretary Blaine has pursued from first to last. There is not in this correspondence from beginning to end a line to which exception could reasonably be taken, or which furnishes the least warrant for the extravagant reports which have been so industriously circulated, and in some quarters so implicitly believed. Mr. Blaine has taken no step toward assuming the attitude either of an autocratic dictator or of an officious intermeddler. His instructions to our representatives are, both in their tone and tenor, eminently judicious.

THE STATEMENT OF DR. BLISS.

Dr. Bliss is reported to have made the following statements in a recent interview, in which his attention was called to publications reflecting upon his version of his status in the care of President Garfield after he was shot:

"I am much surprised at Mrs. Garfield's action. I am indeed more than surprised. Her action during the illness of her husband and since his death are remarkably conflicting. I believe she really does not know to what she has subscribed in this letter of Dr. Baxter's. I hope for her sake, and for the memory of her husband, that it may be so explained. As I have stated on another occasion, I held a conversation with the late President, on the 3d of July, in reference to the treatment of the case. Only Mrs. Garfield was present. I asked who should conduct the case. The President said he desired that I should do so. I asked who should assist. He replied that I was better qualified to select my assistants than he was. Mrs. Garfield chimed in and assented. I named several physicians for assistants, and the President and Mrs. Garfield both said they were perfectly satisfactory." "And Dr. Baxter was among them?" "No, the name of Dr. Baxter was not mentioned in that interview, nor was his name mentioned at any subsequent time, as either an assistant or the principal in the case. Why this dissatisfaction on the part of Mrs. Garfield now? I can't divine it. Why she would subscribe to the truth of Dr. Baxter's letter, when she knows positively, beyond the least doubt or peradventure, that she was present when I had this conversation with Gen. Garfield on the 3d of July, is what mystifies me. I deplore the controversy. It is a shame to this country. I am inclined to the belief that Dr. Boynton is in the case, getting up this war. His feelings were lacerated early." "How about Dr. Baxter being Gen. Garfield's family physician?" "Gen. Garfield said to me, in the presence of Dr. Woodward, that Dr. Billings had prescribed for him last." "Doctor, were you sent for by Gen. Garfield?" "No sir; and I have never said that he sent for me. So that much of the statement by Dr. Baxter is superfluous. A few minutes after Garfield was shot the Secretary of War sent his carriage for me. That is how I came into the case. As I have stated, I took the earliest opportunity on the next day to talk to Gen. Garfield about whom he desired to attend upon him. Mrs. Garfield had the privilege to object to me at any time during the illness of her husband. She never, at any time, uttered a word of dissatisfaction. Neither did any of the members of the Cabinet. And, furthermore, after the death of Gen. Garfield, she came to me and expressed her thanks for the great interest I had taken in the case, adding that she believed I had done everything possible. It was the only time I saw Mrs. Garfield give way to her feelings. Her emotion overcame her on that occasion."

There is nothing like having well defined opinions. The Boston Globe of Wednesday said editorially:

Mr. Blaine has shown conspicuous ability in dealing with international questions. His despatches have given evidence of ability and vigor that have rarely been observed in state papers emanating from Washington.

Then again, the Boston Globe of Thursday editorially said:

Mr. Blaine cannot make a very strong bid for the presidency on his record as a statesman. He made a bad mess of the Chili-Peru affair and brought the United States into contempt.

What the Boston Globe of Friday will say we do not know.

The New Ballot-Box, used for the first time in Boston Tuesday, is designed to prevent fraud. As each ballot is deposited it is registered, and the peculiarity of the device is that if two or more ballots are deposited at the same time only one will be registered. Each of the 107 precincts is furnished with one of these boxes, and the keys are in the hands of police officers who are instructed not to unlock the box until after the polls are closed; at which time the ward officers, under the new law, can commence to count. As a further guard against fraud a gong strikes when each ballot goes into the box loud enough to be heard by every one in the ward room.

One Geo. W. Ladd, the Madawaska Congressman, evidently has concluded not to be Speaker of the House during this Congress, hence his brilliant abilities can now be wholly devoted to the noble art of squirting tobacco juice.—Aroostook Republican.

"Gath" writes that he "would not be surprised to see Blaine go through the South, and come out of it a political idol."

NEWSPAPER SUPPLEMENTS.

RULING OF THE POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

Acting Postmaster-General Hatton has made the following important ruling:

No newspaper supplement, containing any advertisements whatever, can be allowed in the mails at the second-class rates, unless the publisher makes affidavit that the same rates are paid to him for the advertisements contained in the supplement as for those in the body of the paper itself. But the making of this affidavit will not secure the admittance of hand bill or posters or advertisements, in a form intended for circulation independent of the paper itself; or without the date issue; nor will it authorize the use of cuts or illustrations which would not be admitted in the body of the paper. The supplement must contain matter which is printed in the supplement for no other reason than for want of room in the body of the paper, and which would have been so published but for this reason, and therefore the advertisements contained therein must be of the class of matter, style of illustration and display common to the entire paper. Postmasters will be held strictly responsible for the mailing of any matter in violation of this ruling, and are required to report all such violations coming under their notice.

GEN. SHERMAN'S SADDLE.

The following letter was received from General Sherman in reply to a request for the loan of his sword for exhibition at the Boston Fair in aid of the Soldiers' Home:

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE UNITED STATES,
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6, 1881.

Col. Herbert E. Hill:

My dear sir,—You ask me for the loan of "the sword or sabre" I wore "during the famous March to the Sea." The truth is I did not wear a sword or sabre during that march nor at any time after I succeeded General Grant in the command of Western Armies at Nashville, March, 1864. The only honest relic I possess of that march is my saddle, which I value for its real goodness. I use it now when I have occasion to mount a horse. Still, for the purpose you have—to please "several thousand old soldiers"—I have sent it to you, and hereby certify that I actually used that saddle during the war from about July, 1862, to the end. I rode that identical saddle from Corinth, Miss., to Chattanooga—to Atlanta and to Washington.

Wishing you all success in your noble and laudable enterprise, I am

Your friend and servant,
W. T. SHERMAN.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The following new books of Roberts Brothers, Boston, are for sale at D. Bugbee & Co.'s.

THE TWO CABIN BOYS, by Louis Rousselet, author of the "Constable's Son," is a story of adventure that will delight the boy readers into whose hands it falls. It is a graphic portrayal of life at sea, with its excitement and novelty, the horrors of shipwreck, adventures in foreign lands among all sorts of strange people, and final prosperous return home of the two cabin boys. The book contains 362 pages with forty-six fine illustrations and is handsomely bound in cloth. Price $1.50.

CROSS PATCH and Other Stories, by Susan Coolidge, contains the delightful adaptations by that author from the myths of Mother Goose. Miss Coolidge has a rare faculty of telling stories for the young, and her fanciful sketches woven about the familiar characters of the old nursery rhymes, are very successful and bright. Cloth, neatly bound, 268 pages, with forty-four illustrations by Ellen Oakford. Price $1.50.

"MAMMY TITTLEBACK AND HER FAMILY, a True Story of Seventeen Cats, is one of the unique productions of the popular story-teller "H. H." In this book there are no less than seventeen feline dramatis personæ, and to avoid confusion there is an elaborate genealogical tree. The book is suited to young children, and is pleasingly illustrated from drawings by Addie Ledyard. Cloth binding. Price $1.25.

Another remarkable phase of the extraordinary Guiteau case, was the appearance of the prisoner's counsel, Mr. Scoville, on the lecture platform in Washington, Wednesday evening, discussing the case now on trial and arraigning the pulpit and press for injustice to Guiteau. And the reports announce frequent "applause" of sentiments invoking sympathy for the destroyer of the late President.

John Forsyth, D. D. LL. D., professor of law and ethics at the United States Military Academy, has been placed on the retired list of the army.

Wouldn't some of them be inclined to have a prejudice just now against the "Pacific" squadron?

Senator Hale is to introduce several bills providing for the new apportionment under the Census of 1880, which he will endeavor to have perfected before the State Legislature adjourns this winter, in case it is necessary to redistrict.

NEW ENGLAND AND THE CABINET. It is reported that there was a conference at the White House this morning relative to the appointment of a New England member in the Cabinet, in the course of which it appeared that the persons from whom the selection is to be made, if any are selected from New England, are Governor Boutwell and Wm. E. Chandler. That Mr. Boutwell does not wish a Cabinet place but desires the appointment to the Clifford vacancy on the United States Supreme Bench, and that Mr. Chandler would take a Cabinet portfolio. The place considered, according to the rumor, is the Navy Department.—Cor. Boston Journal.

SECRETARY BLAINE. Washington specials state that Secretary Blaine will surrender the State Department to his successor next Monday and on Monday evening will tender a reception to Secretary Frelinghuysen at which all the Diplomatic Corps will be represented. A personal friend of Mr. Blaine says that the retiring Secretary of State will remain out of politics for the present, and devote some time, perhaps a year, to looking after his private business affairs, which have sadly needed his personal supervision for many months. He will remain in Washington most of the time, and move into his new mansion as soon as it is completed.

Sixteen years of existence and not a machine can be found which in family use is worn enough to unfit it for service. Self Threading Shuttle. Self Setting Needle.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Whittaker Case

WASHINGTON, Dec 15. While there is nothing positively known on the subject it is the general belief in well informed army circles that the verdict of Cadet Whittaker's Court Martial was unfavorable to the prisoner and recommended his dismissal from the academy but that the review of the proceedings by the Judge Advocate General of the Army and report thereon by the Secretary of War, will result in the President setting aside the findings of the Court and ordering the reinstatement of Whittaker.

GUITEAU IN COURT.

DAMAGING EVIDENCE AGAINST THE PRISONER.

The Assassin's Vicious Conduct.

Guiteau Prescribes for the Jury

WASHINGTON, Dec 15 Among the spectators at the Guiteau trial to-day were Senator Hawley, Representatives Lefevre and McKinley, of Ohio, Emery Speer, of Georgia and ex Sergt. at-Arms Thompson. Clarkson N Potter, Gov Phelps of Vermont, and Cortland Parker, of New York, occupied seats upon the Bench.

As soon as the Court was called to order, Guiteau addressed the Court and said

If Your Honor pleases, I want to make a little speech It will be a great misfortune if anything should happen to the jury, they are very honest, intelligent men and I want the best of care taken of them There are some of them who are not accustomed to good, wholesome food, and consequently they are liable to have indigestion I want the Court to order them out every morning for a walk four or five miles before breakfast. I have two or three more little speeches to make, but this will do for the present "

Judge Cox—"The Court will attend to the wants of the jury "

Mr Collier Again on the Stand

Mr Collier, who was on the stand when the Court adjourned yesterday, was recalled The witness never detected any signs of insanity in the prisoner Scoville began to cross-examine the witness, when Guiteau in a rage shouted I never saw this man but once in my life and that was in 73 I never saw him but three minutes in my life What does he know about me? This shows how little sense you have got Corkhill to put up this man as an expert " To Scoville, And you haven t got common horse sense to waste the time of the Court in an examination of his character He was only a clerk in a lawyer's office anyway."

Re-examined by Corkhill, the witness said. "In my opinion at the time I knew him he was perfectly competent to distinguish between right and wrong "

An exception was noted by Scoville Mr Scoville asked, "What is your opinion of the prisoner s ability to distinguish between right and wrong at the present time? The question was ruled out and another exception was noted by Scoville a lawyer of Logansport, Ind, met the prisoner in 73 The prisoner was selling a little book, the "Life of Moody "

I N Jonston,

Guiteau here interrupted "You are mixing me up with some one else

The witness continued, but was again interrupted by Guiteau, who said "Stop right here Can you identify me as the man? "

Witness— I think I can "

Guiteau—"Can you swear to it"

Witness—"Yes I can "

Guiteau—"Well, you are a liar, sir, a miserable liar, that s the best way to dispose of you sir "

Witness continuing, said the prisoner was in Logansport about three weeks selling the book Guiteau continually interjected his abusive comments and finally shouted out "You miserable whelp, to come in here to make me out a book agent I was preaching the gospel and sold my own productions " In a few minutes he turned to Scoville with an air of intense disgust and said "Oh cut this fool short, he is lying all through, don't waste time on him "

Scoville asked "What was the appearance of the prisoner when you knew him? "

A—" He looked about the same as he does now except about the eyes "

Scoville—"What was the difference in the expression of his eyes?

A— At that time he had a free expression, now his expression seems suppressed "

Guiteau—I don't think I am much suppressed this morning It seems to me I am pretty lively this morning "

Guiteau gradually worked himself up in to a towering rage and declaimed against witness, the prosecution and the cranks whom he claimed had threatened him with violence, his billingsgate being more especially directed against the prosecuting Attorney Referring to Corkhill he said "He is getting too dirty and too stinking to live, and the first thing he knows God Almighty will take him off and sink him down below "

Rev Hugh R Shippin,

pastor of All Souls church Washington boarded at the same house and occupied a seat at the same table with the prisoner from April last until the day before the murder of the President, when the prisoner disappeared from the house. The witness had frequent conversations with the prisoner Both had lived in Chicago and that formed a basis of conversation, which led to quite a familiar acquaintanceship The prisoner was chatty and polite A little quick or nervous in his utterance, but not sufficiently so to indicate marked peculiarity The witness never detected anything to indicate insanity and never entertained the slightest suspicion of it in connection with the prisoner

The striking feature of Shippen's testimony was his statement that the usual topic of conversation between himself and the prisoner at the table, where they met three times a day, was the Conkling Garfield imbroglio and the New Testament revision, and that on no occasion did the prisoner exhibit more excitement than any other person might do The former being the subject which as Guiteau alleges impelled him upon the President. Dr. Shippen s testimony is considered of the highest value to the prosecution formerly the wife of Guiteau then took the stand She was married to the prisoner in July 69 Scoville objected to the testimony unless the record (proof of divorce was shown The witness was then withdrawn, Corkhill remarking that he would introduce the witness later, after he had obtained the necessary copy of the Court record a young physician at the jail, where Guiteau has been confined, related the particulars of several conversations he had had with the prisoner. At one time he asked the prisoner why he 'removed' (using the prisoner's term) the President and his reply was "because I was inspired to do so, and a little time after, 'If the President should die I would be convinced that my inspiration was from the Deity, but if he should recover I would be in doubt about it " The witness thought this was a decided wavering on the part of the prisoner The witness was asked if he considered prisoner a sane man and replied "A perfectly sane man, sir, and as bright quick and intelligent a man as you would see in a summer s day, not the slightest indication of insanity about him He was a little impatient of restraint at times, a little nervous as often is the case, a position would naturally be, but perfectly sane "

A Family Jar

Mrs Scoville suddenly rose in her place and said, "Your Honor I would like to ask a question of the witness I consider it of vital importance to the case "

Guiteau, impatiently, "Now don't sister It s all these people can do to stand me without your talking, you are no lawyer "

Mrs Scoville—"The question is of vital importance "

Mr Scoville—"I prefer your Honor that permission should not be given "

Davidge—"Let Mrs Scoville suggest the question to her husband and we will not object "

Mrs. Scoville, sotto voice, "Well, he don't know how to ask questions any way "

Mr. Scoville asked if it were possible to place in the prisoner s coffee any drugs that would make him appear brighter or more quiet as the case might be Guiteau, with contemptuous expression, "You are examining witness for the other side, aint you Scoville; I never saw anything quite so stupid as your manner of examining witnesses this morning. I think your lecture last night must have been too much for you "

Mrs. Scoville wrote her question and reached over to hand it to her husband when Guiteau sharply said, "Now you just mind your business and attend to your own affairs. You are making yourself altogether too officious in this case "

Pending the colloquy between, Guiteau and his sister the witness was permitted to depart, much to the disappointment apparently, of Mrs. Scoville.

Gen James A. Reynolds,

a lawyer of Chicago, knew the prisoner first about May 18, 1868, in Chicago. The prisoner applied for permission to enter his (witness) law office as student. He was allowed to do so and remained for some months. He then disappeared and in 1875 reappeared and approached the witness on the subject of his Inter Ocean scheme The witness thought his ideas upon the subject remarkably good and some of them to his (witness) knowledge have since been adopted by the management of that paper. The witness thought at the time that the prisoner would make a successful lawyer if he devoted himself to it. The witness visited the prisoner in jail twelve days after the assassination and the prisoner asked me "where were you on the day of the assassination "

Corkhill—"Did he use the word 'assassination' "

Witness—"Yes, that is the precise word he used "

The witness made memorandum notes of his conversation with the prisoner at this interview and to refresh his memory was allowed to read from them The witness read two or three times in quoting the prisoner's words and used the word 'assassination,"

Corkhill—"Did he use that term?"

Witness—"He used that word and never spoke in reference to any Divine inspiration at this interview After this at subsequent interviews he always spoke of the murder as the 'removal' of the President "

The Assassin Don't Like the Testimony

Guiteau, who received the witness with smiles and a beaming countenance upon his taking the stand soon realized how completely he had been entrapped by him and his rage increased momentarily Finally he shouted "This man came to me as an old friend from Chicago, when really he was nothing but a spy employed by Corkhill I want to thunder this to the American people to let them understand what this man's character is " Turning to Corkhill This is your work Corkhill and God Almighty will damn you for it You have deceived all through and stolen my thoughts and betrayed them " The witness continued to read from notes he had taken at his second interview with the prisoner Some allusions being made to something which had appeared in the Washington Republican, Guiteau pounded on his desk and shouted out "That's just what the little whelp Gorham was writing at that time, and now he is ready to eat his own words He is hanging around Arthur now and trying to get some. He is 'offlee' He ought to be ashamed of himself, if he has any decency I have got a speech on this fellow Gorham, I only want to get a chance at him

The witness stated that he read to the prisoner what Grant and Conkling and some of his (prisoner's) alleged friends said of him (Guiteau) and his crime and he walking the floor excitedly, said "What does it mean I would have staked my life they would have defended me They know they wanted Garfield removed and yet they denounce me and can only see in it the bloody act " The witness also showed him some papers in which he (Guiteau) was bitterly denounced for the crime and his (prisoner's) comment was that the true facts had been suppressed and that he had not had any defence The witness continued He asked me, referring to Grant Conkling and other prominent stalwarts, Do they know I have stated that I had no accomplices " and I told him yes He seemed dazed and said repeating the words several times, "Most astounding, most astounding "

Guiteau here broke in and said with a sneer You were a pretty smart detective weren't you, General You will probably get more business in this line now," Recess

After Recess

Guiteau announced that he had a little speech to make and said "I suppose I have given one thousand autographs since this trial begun It has been suggested I shall charge twenty-five cents for them but I decline We want money, however, for this trial There are certain office holders in this city and throughout the country that never would have had their positions but for my inspiration I want these men if they have got any conscience to respond to the appeal and send us some money If they don't do it I shall speak out in meeting and give their names next time Some rich man in New York gave Mrs Garfield several hundred thousand dollars, it was a noble act and I applaud it Now I want them to give me some. I demand it in the name of justice and right

Col Corkhill introduced in evidence an application made by Guiteau ten years ago for a policy of life insurance in which the prisoner answered in the negative the question, Has there ever been any insanity in your family "

continued "At my second interview with the prisoner he wrote the address to the American people which has since been published and handed it to me, with request that I have it published "

The original draft was then introduced and was read by Col Corkhill with occasional comments by Guiteau, who followed the reading with the closest attention When the word 'inspiration' was read Judge Porter arose and called attention to the fact that this was the first announcement of inspiration as a defence for murder and it was made on the 19th of July, after the prisoner learned that Arthur, Grant Conkling and the other Stalwarts that he expected would shield him, in reality loathed him and abhorred his act

"It s a lie, Mr Big mouthed Porter," shouted Guiteau

Scoville protested against this style of argument to the jury and demanded that Judge Porter should withdraw the remark

Judge Porter—"I shall not withdraw one word I shall say upon this trial "

A number of letters written by Guiteau since his incarceration were read by the District Attorney and were offered in evidence to disprove the theory of insanity. After the reading was concluded Guiteau turned to the District Attorney and inquired "Where are the rest of my letters, Corkhill, that you intercepted? I think the American people ought to know what a miserable sneak you are the witness, Gen Reynolds, until the hour of adjournment

Scoville Questioned

"Have you always been on good terms with the prisoner?" asked Scoville

"Yes," shouted the prisoner, "I always considered him my personal friend and he proved himself a mean dirty scoundrel. A nice record you'll have Reynolds to come sneaking into my cell to get information to hang me on "

Scoville pressed the witness closely and finally received the answer that the Government paid him for his expenses while he was having these interviews

Guiteau—"How much?

Scoville—"You keep quiet "

Guiteau—"Well then ask him how much he got You take an hour to get out of him what I could learn in ten minutes "

Scoville asked him how much he received and the reply was $85.

Guiteau—"Three interviews! Well that's pretty good, about $30 a day for lying—that's more than Corkhill earns, but then he'll get his reward down below in the next world."

The cross-examination became rather tedious without eliciting anything new. Guiteau protested frequently that the time of the Court should not be wasted by such "loose zig zag sort of talk." Finally, with great impatience, he shouted "Oh, say your aunt was your uncle, it would be about as sensible as your questions. You are most as stupid as Corkhill. Come Your Honor let's go home "

The Court then adjourned.

Hearing in a Murder Case.

FALL RIVER, Dec 15. Hearing of the evidence against John Sullivan, Michael Starkey and Dennis Calvin, accused of the murder of Raymond P Dennis, Thursday forenoon last, was concluded to-day. Although the wife and daughter of Dennis swore positively that they saw Sullivan do the shooting, the latter produced strong enough evidence to prove an alibi and he was discharged. Michael Starkey and Dennis Calden's testimony goes to show the shooting was done by John Calden, who is still at large. A coat covered with blood and fragments of bone was found at Starkey's house, which he says belongs to John Calden, who changed his clothes there after the murder. Sharkey and Calden were committed to jail without bail.

It appears from the accounts of the Paris Jardin des Plantes that the current price of an elephant is 12 500 francs; of a royal tiger 7,000 francs; of a rhinoceros, 13,000 francs; and of a camel 2,000 franc.

CHURCH FAIR

Auspicious Opening of the Essex Street F B Church Fair

The Essex Street Church Fair opened last evening under auspicious circumstances The vestry of the church was decorated with flags and evergreens On one side of the vestry was the fishing pool where all who desired indulged in the piscatorial sport to their heart's content On another side was a tastily arranged booth over the entrance of which was the sign "Post Office " Here all were remembered by letters from what seemed to be our common friend, for only three cents On still another side was a large table decorated with pies and cakes and such things which only woman can make and arrange to tempt the appetite, while near by were smaller tables, presided over by graceful waiters where substantial food or dainties on the "European Plan," were supplied In the centre of the vestry was a large square booth beautifully covered and draped with flags and banners with tables on four sides, on which were displayed with fine effect useful and ornamental articles manufactured by the skilled hands of members of the society But what was most pleasing to those who have the Fair in charge was the audience present, which was composed of generous, liberal-hearted citizens who substantially manifested their desire for the success of the Fair

It was announced that the sale would be continued this evening from six to eight o clock, and that oysters and other refreshments would be served during the same time At eight o clock there will be an entertainment in the audience room, consisting of readings by Miss Janie Savage, of Boston, who has been advertised in this paper for the past two weeks, as an accomplished reader The readings will be interspersed with vocal and instrumental music by local talent. We congratulate the friends of the society on the auspicious opening of their Fair, and the brilliant programme they are able to offer for the closing evening. We hope they may have the success that the enterprise deserves

ART ASSOCIATION COURSE

The Illustrated Lecture Last Evening

Mr E C. Bolles' lecture on "Westminster and South Kensington, or the Palace of Government and the Palace of Art in London," at City Hall last evening, was, perhaps, one of the most interesting that has yet been delivered in the Art Association Course, a fact in a measure due to the fine illustrations which accompanied it The attendance was very good. The views presented, of which there were sixty five, were of a very instructive character and naturally of deep interest to the art student In the course of his lecture Mr. Bolles paid a high tribute to Mr Gladstone, alluding to him as the leading man of the century, and of the world He also fittingly alluded to the late President Garfield, his warm eulogy being received with the most marked and emphatic approval of the audience. In speaking of the House of Commons the lecturer said it was much inferior to the House of Representatives at Washington, in point of architectural beauty, finish, upholstering, and in many other matters of minor importance That portion of his lecture devoted to the South Kensington Museum was of special interest, giving, as it did, a succinct account of its history and aims, of the collections of industrial art, the arrangement of the collections, etc., all of which was profusely illustrated. Owing to the late arrival of the train, Mr. Bolles did not commence his lecture until about half past eight, but ere the lecture closed the delay was forgotten by the audience, who felt that the hour spent in witnessing the shadowy views and listening to the clear descriptions had been one of rare pleasure and profit.

The next entertainment in the course will occur Friday, Dec. 23, when Mme. Hernandred Ricard, a dramatic, pathetic, humorous and dialect reader, will give her impersonation of celebrities in costumes.

AMUSEMENTS.

Hutchinson Family.

Tickets for the Sacred Concert at Norombega Hall Sunday evening next, may be obtained at Bugbee's. Reserved seats to any part of the house, 35 cents. It is hardly necessary at this time to praise the singing of the Hutchinsons. In their original style of sweet melody, they have a reputation which is unequalled.

The Tourists

Messrs Smith & Mestayer's highly amusing comedy and musical party, The Tourists in a Pullman Palace Car, will be with us again next Thursday evening at Norombega Hall. Their reputation gained by their former visit here would alone insure a large attendance, but they now offer as an additional reason for the public's patronage a new and greatly strengthened company, and a large number of new and attractive features in the entertainment itself The piece has been carefully revised for the present season, all alterations having been made with the sole object of heightening the mirth of the entertainment, and the record thus far attests that they have thoroughly succeeded. The music of the programme is also a most prominent feature, and all the more acceptable, as it is seldom to be found joined with so much pure genuine fun

Collections are made Morning and evening, in season for important mails.

Holders in the Carriers' Window will be open for the delivery of letters from 8½ to 9 A. M. and from 6½ to 7½ P. M. Sundays from 8½ to 9½ A. M.
